

“If it looks dodgy, don’t touch it.”

Warren Caban,
Conveyor Technician, Mackay

Safety and fatigue management are top priorities for Warren Caban.

“You have to know your limits,” he says. “We do long shifts and a lot of travelling.”

Warren joined Apex Fenner by attending the company’s training centre at Mackay. He’d already worked in the coal industry, so he knows the drill.

During the course, safety comes first, all day every day – from job safety analysis, take five, managing heat stress, safe use of chemicals, to wearing Kevlar gloves when using knives.

Apex Fenner is renowned for its safety record. We don’t cut corners.

Warren, like all our technicians, typically works at your place, not ours. So he’s responsive to your safety codes and needs, as well as ours.

When it comes to change outs and installation, our highly qualified technicians follow strict safety procedures, particularly during shutdowns.

Because at the end of the day we want Warren and everyone else home safe with their families.
